

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

Hunger amidst plenty is a "terrorist" that kills more people than Sept. 11th 2001 attacks several times each day. And hunger can easily be ended sustainably and ecologically, without over burdening anyone with excess taxes, or even depriving anyone of a very comfortable and free lifestyle. In fact allowing hunger to persist diminishes life for all people every day. Ending hunger costs far less than this insane proposed, likely, war on Iraq. So when does corporate controlled media enter this vital public conversation, or report facts like this, or mention in anything but a bad light any of the numerous viable solutions to hunger? Solutions that don't kill anyone. Practically never.! Out of dozens of stations, this is never even hinted at. It is clear to me that this is largely because of huge companies owning all the stations and cow towing to their skittish and ignorant to the damage done, corporate sponsors. Also ignorant of all the good that will expand world wide!

if and when we do end hunger and free everyone of this daily unnecessary tragedy. Please, please open the airwaves that the people own to the people. Thank You, In love truth and simplicity. Todd Feiler
